

TEN PATHS TO GOD

UNIT 7 – Student Guide / Entry Level

אמונה FAITH Love as Loyalty

Based on the teachings of Rabbi Sacks

“Among the fine people it has been my privilege to know, Chaim (Harry) and Anna Schimmel hold a special place. Their life has been built on a love of Torah, which they have learned, taught, supported, and in Harry’s case written brilliantly about. They epitomized it for our community; they have communicated it to everyone they know, and especially to their children and grandchildren. I always counted Harry as my benchmark. If he agreed with an interpretation I had given, I was confident I was on the right lines. Now that Harry and Anna have made aliyah to Yerushalayim Ir ha-Kodesh, I count it as a special delight that this curriculum project has been sponsored in their honor. They inspired me; I hope these materials inspire others.”

Introduction

Watch: The opening video for Unit 7

First Reading: Read through the text from the video. Highlight each word or phrase that you are unsure of, whether it is the meaning of the language or the meaning of the concept.

Judaism is an unusual, subtle, profoundly humane faith that challenges the conventional wisdom of the ages. Faith is the courage Avraham and Sarah showed when they heard the call of God and left behind all they had known to travel to an unknown destination. Faith led more than a hundred generations of our ancestors to continue that journey, knowing all the risks yet believing that there is no greater privilege than to be part of it. Faith is the voice that says, 'Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil for You are with me.'

Faith sustained Jews in the dark days of persecution. It led them never to give up hope that one day they would return to Israel, to Jerusalem and to freedom. Jews kept faith alive, and faith kept the Jewish people alive.

Faith is not certainty. It is the courage to live with uncertainty. It is not knowing all the answers. It is often the strength to live with the questions. It is not a sense of invulnerability. It is the knowledge that we are utterly vulnerable, but that it is precisely in our vulnerability that we reach out to God, and through this learn to reach out to others, able to understand their fears and doubts. We learn to share, and in sharing discover the road to freedom. It is only because we are not gods that we are able to discover God.

God is the personal dimension of existence, the 'Thou' beneath the 'It', the 'Ought' beyond the 'Is', the Self that speaks to self in moments of total disclosure. Opening ourselves to the universe we find God reaching out to us. At that moment we make the life-changing discovery that though we seem utterly insignificant, we are utterly significant, a fragment of God's presence in the world. Eternity preceded us, infinity will come after us, yet we know that this day, this moment, this place, this circumstance, is full of the light of infinite radiance, whose proof is the mere fact that we are here to experience it.

Faith is where God and human beings touch across the abyss of infinity. Emunah means faithfulness, love-as-loyalty. The closest analogue is marriage: a mutual commitment, entered into in love, binding the partners together in fidelity and trust. God chose us – we chose God, and though our relationship has sometimes been tense and troubled, the bond between us is unbreakable.

Knowing, we are known. Feeling, we are felt. Acting, we are acted upon. Living, we are lived. And if we make ourselves transparent to existence, then our lives too radiate that Divine presence which, celebrating life, gives life to those whose lives we touch.

Faith is the space we create for God.

Analysis in Chavruta: Now in chavruta (pairs), take a look again at the text. Discuss and answer the questions on the key terms and phrases that are highlighted for you.

Judaism is an unusual, subtle, profoundly humane faith that challenges the conventional wisdom of the ages. Faith is the courage Avraham and Sarah showed when they heard the call of God and left behind all they had known to travel to an unknown destination. Faith led more than a hundred generations of our ancestors to continue that journey, knowing all the risks yet believing that there is no greater privilege than to be part of it. Faith is the voice that says, 'Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil for You are with me.'

Faith sustained Jews in the dark days of persecution. It led them never to give up hope that one day they would to return to Israel, to Jerusalem and to freedom. Jews kept faith alive, and faith kept the Jewish people alive.

Faith is not certainty. It is the courage to live with uncertainty. It is not knowing all the answers. It is often the strength to live with the questions. It is not a sense of invulnerability. It is the knowledge that we are utterly vulnerable, but that it is precisely in our vulnerability that we reach out to God, and through this learn to reach out to others, able to understand their fears and doubts. We learn to share, and in sharing discover the road to freedom. It is only because we are not gods that we are able to discover God.

God is the personal dimension of existence, the 'Thou' beneath the 'It', the 'Ought' beyond the 'Is', the Self that speaks to self in moments of total disclosure. Opening ourselves to the universe we find God reaching out to us. At that moment we make the life-changing discovery that though we seem utterly insignificant, we are utterly significant, a fragment of God's presence in the world. Eternity preceded us, infinity will come after us, yet we know that this day, this moment, this place, this circumstance, is full of the light of infinite radiance, whose proof is the mere fact that we are here to experience it.

Faith is where God and human beings touch across the abyss of infinity.

Emunah means faithfulness, love-as-loyalty. The closest analogue is marriage: a mutual commitment, entered into in love, binding the partners together in fidelity and trust. God chose us – we chose God, and though our relationship has sometimes been tense and troubled, the bond between us is unbreakable.

Knowing, we are known. Feeling, we are felt. Acting, we are acted upon. Living, we are lived. And if we make ourselves transparent to existence, then our lives too radiate that Divine presence which, celebrating life, gives life to those whose lives we touch.

Faith is the space we create for God.

Faith is the courage Avraham and Sarah showed

1. Is it courageous to have faith in God? Why?
2. Why did Avraham and Sarah need the courage of faith to do what they did?
3. Do you know anyone who made a similar journey? Did they need the courage of faith?

‘Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil for You are with me.’

1. Do you know who wrote this originally? Can you find its source?
2. Why do you think Rabbi Sacks chose this quote to make his point?
3. During which periods of Jewish history could this quote be an appropriate description of the courage to find faith? Have you ever experienced anything in your life that makes this quote resonate personally?

return to Israel, to Jerusalem and to freedom

1. Why were these things something that Jews needed to have faith in?
2. Rabbi Sacks says faith meant that Jews never gave up hope for these things. Is there a difference between faith and hope?
3. Now we have these things, do we need to have faith in anything else?

the strength to live with the questions

1. What questions are there without answers that need faith to live with?
2. Do you have any questions that cannot be answered? How do you feel about these questions?
3. Does Judaism have all the answers?

the 'Thou' beneath the 'It'

"I and Thou" is a book and system of thought by the Jewish philosopher Martin Buber. He believes that we can interact with the world as an object (I-It) or in a relationship (I-Thou) and for man the ultimate meaningful relationship is the I-Thou with God.

1. What would a relationship with God be like if it was I-It?
2. What would a relationship with God be like if it was I-Thou?
3. Which one most accurately describes your relationship with God?

the 'Ought' beyond the 'Is'

1. The "is" is the reality of our world. What is that reality?
2. The "ought" is what the world could and should be like. How is it different from the "is"?
3. Why does God represent the "ought"?

a fragment of God's presence in the world

1. How are we "a fragment of God's presence in the world"?
2. Why does that make us "utterly significant"?
3. How does this knowledge change the way we live our lives?

Emunah means faithfulness, love-as-loyalty

1. What is the difference between faith and faithfulness?
2. Why do you think Rabbi Sacks defines Emunah/faithfulness as love-as-loyalty?
3. How does one show faithfulness to God? How does He show the same to us?

Share your analysis: Come together as a class and share your answers. Listen carefully to the perspectives of your classmates. Did anyone take a different approach to the text from you? Does their approach resonate with you?

Exploring our Faith through the Core Concepts

Exploration of the Core Concepts: Together with your chavruta join another pair to form a small chabura (study group). Look at the supplementary sources provided below for each of the core concepts highlighted in the text. Your teacher will tell you which core concept to look at first. Make sure you understand it fully, and write down any questions you have. Explain how the supplementary source helps you understand the core concept it is connected to. Use the questions to guide your discussion and analysis.

Faith as defiance

WHOM THEN SHALL I FEAR?

לְדוֹד יְהוָה אֹרִי וְיִשְׁעִי מִמֶּנִּי אֵינִי מֵעוֹזֶה מִמֶּנִּי אֶפְחָד: בְּקֶרֶב עָלִי מִרְעִים לֹאֲכֹל
אֶת־בָּשָׂרִי צָרִי וְאֵיבִי לִי הֵמָּה כְּשֶׁלּוֹ וְנָפְלוּ: אֶסְתַּחֲנֶה עָלֵי מַחֲנֶה לֹא־יִירָא לִבִּי אֶסְתַּקּוֹם עָלֵי
מִלְחָמָה בְּזֹאת אֲנִי בּוֹטָח:

The Lord is my light and my salvation – whom then shall I fear? The Lord is the stronghold of my life – of whom shall I be afraid? When evil men close in on me to devour my flesh it is they, my enemies and foes, who stumble and fall. Should an army besiege me, my heart would not fear. Should war break out against me, still I would be confident.

Tehillim 27:1–3

RABBI JOSEPH SCHNEERSON: TWO WORLDS, ONE GOD

Rabbi Joseph Schneerson ran a seminary in Russia. When the Communists came to power they ordered all religious seminaries to close. Rabbi Schneerson defied the order and continued teaching religion.

One day a government officer confronted him and ordered him to close his school. The Rebbe refused. The officer pulled out a gun and said, ‘You will close the school or you will be killed.’ Rabbi Schneerson showed no emotion and quietly responded, ‘The school will remain open.’

The officer could not help being impressed by the Rabbi’s calm demeanor and complete lack of fear. ‘Don’t you take me seriously?’ he asked. ‘Aren’t you afraid of dying?’

The Rabbi responded calmly, ‘Someone who has only one world and many gods is afraid of dying. Someone who has two worlds and only one God has no fear.’

Rabbi Schneerson’s yeshiva remained open. In 1940 he transplanted it to the United States. Today it has branches throughout the world. Russian communism is no more.

Adapted from Abraham J. Twerski, Do Unto Others, pp. 158–59

1. In your opinion, what are the darkest days of Jewish history? Do these dark times challenge your faith?
2. Are there periods of Jewish history that reinforce your faith?
3. Does the quote from Tehillim resonate with you? Do you think it would have been a source of strength for you if you had lived during the darkest days of Jewish history?
4. Do you find Rabbi Schneerson's profound courage and faith in the face of such danger an inspiration? Do you think you would have been able to show similar courage?
5. What does the conclusion of the story (that the yeshiva remained open until today, while Russian communism is no more) say about Rabbi Schneerson's faith? Does that impact your own faith?

It is the courage to live with uncertainty.

A faith of questions – living with uncertainty

DID YOU ASK A GOOD QUESTION TODAY?

Isidore Rabi, winner of a Nobel Prize in physics, was once asked why he became a scientist. He replied, 'My mother made me a scientist without ever knowing it. Every other child would come back from school and be asked, "What did you learn today?" But my mother used to ask a different question. "Izzy," she always used to say, "Did you ask a good question today?" That made the difference. Asking good questions made me a scientist.'

Judaism is a religion of questions. The greatest prophets asked questions of God. The Book of Iyov, the most searching of all explorations of human suffering, is a book of questions asked by man, to which God replies with a string of questions of His own. The seder service on Pesach begins with four questions asked by a child.

When I first went to study at a yeshivah I was struck by the way the teacher's face would light up when we asked a question. Du fregst a gutte kashe, 'You raise a good objection,' was his highest form of praise. Abraham Twerski, an American psychiatrist, tells of how, when he was young, his instructor would relish challenges to his arguments. In his broken English he would say, 'You right! You a hundred prozent right! Now I show you where you wrong.'

Religious faith, in Judaism, is not naïve or blind. Every question asked in reverence is the start of a journey towards God. When faith suppresses questions, it dies. When it accepts superficial answers, it begins to wither. Faith is not opposed to doubt. What it is opposed to is the shallow certainty that what we understand is all there is.

Jonathan Sacks, Celebrating Life, pp. 79–81

1. Rabbi Sacks says faith is the courage to live with uncertainty. What uncertainties in life do you think he is referring to?
2. Why does it take courage to live with uncertainty? What is the alternative?
3. Why ask questions that have no answers?
4. Why would faith (or faith leaders) wish to suppress questions? Does Judaism suppress questions?
5. What questions do you have? If you could stand in the presence of God and ask any questions at all, what would you ask?

though our relationship has sometimes been tense and troubled

Faith as defiance against God

A JEW I SHALL REMAIN

Solomon ibn Verga, (Spain/Italy, 15th–16th Century), was one of the rare Jewish historians of the Middle Ages. In his account of the Spanish Expulsion, he told this story:

I heard from some of the elders who came out of Spain that one of the boats was infested with the plague, and the captain of the boat put the passengers ashore at some uninhabited place. There, most of them died of starvation, while some of them gathered all their strength to set out on foot in search of some settlement.

There was one Jew among them who struggled on afoot together with his wife and two children. The wife grew faint and died, because she was not accustomed to so much difficult walking. The husband carried his children along until both he and they fainted from hunger. When he regained consciousness, he found that his two children had died.

In great grief he rose to his feet and said: 'O Lord of all the universe, You are doing a great deal that I might even desert my faith. But know You of a certainty that – even against the will of heaven – a Jew I am and a Jew I shall remain. And neither that which You have brought upon me nor that which You may yet bring upon me will be of any avail.'

Thereupon he gathered some earth and some grass, and covered the boys, and went forth in search of a settlement.

Solomon ibn Verga, Shevet Yehudah, pp. 89–94, cited in Nahum Glatzer, A Jewish Reader, p. 204

1. Why do you think Rabbi Sacks says “our relationship has sometimes been tense and troubled”?
2. Do you sometimes have a tense and troubled relationship with God? Why?
3. Do you also feel your bond with God is unbreakable?
4. The Jew in the story is angry at God. Why do you think that is?
5. Is he rebelling against God, or showing loyalty to God? Could it be both?

celebrating life, gives life to those whose lives we touch

Faith as inspiration to others

TO LIGHT A FIRE

Some people wear their faith like an overcoat. It only warms them, but does not benefit others at all. But some light a fire, and also warm others.

Menachem Mendl of Kotzk (The Kotzker Rebbe)

1. How can the way we live and celebrate our lives inspire others to live their lives?
2. How can we make our faith a fire to warm others rather than a coat to just warm ourselves?

The miracle of faith to inspire

Faith after the Holocaust

Rabbi Yekutiel Halberstam, the Klausenberger Rebbe, lived through the Warsaw Ghetto, the work camps, the death march to Dachau, and then Auschwitz itself. He survived, but his wife and eleven children did not. In Auschwitz, he vowed that if he survived he would dedicate himself to life. He resolved to build a hospital that would honor the image of God in every human being. It took him fifteen years to raise the money, but eventually he built the Laniado Hospital in Netanya, Israel, dedicated to treating everyone alike, Jew and Arab, Israeli and Palestinian. This is what he taught his followers after the Holocaust:

The biggest miracle of all is the one that we, the survivors of the Holocaust, after all that we witnessed and lived through, still believe and have faith in the Almighty God, may His name be blessed. This, my friends, is the miracle of miracles, the greatest miracle ever to have taken place.

Yaffa Eliach, Chassidic Tales of the Holocaust, p. 228

1. Do you find survivors of the Holocaust inspiring? How so?
2. Some survivors lost their faith because of their experiences during the Holocaust. Does this take away from the miracle the Klausenberger Rebbe is describing?
3. Why do you think building the Laniado Hospital was so important to him after he settled in Netanya?

Faith is the space we create for God.

Faith is making space for God

WHERE WE LET HIM IN

Rabbi Menachem Mendel of Kotzk (1787–1859) was one of the most remarkable figures of the Jewish mystical movement known as Chassidism. Angular, unconventional, passionate in his search for truth, he spent his life ‘wrestling with God and with men’.

On one occasion, at the third Shabbat meal, when the atmosphere of the holy day is at its most intense, the Rebbe turned to his disciples and asked, ‘Where does God live?’

They were stunned by the strangeness of the question. ‘What does the Rebbe mean, “Where does God live?” Where does God not live? Surely we are taught that there is no place devoid of His presence. He fills the heavens and the earth.’

‘No,’ said the Rebbe. ‘You have not understood. God lives where we let Him in.’

God is always here, but we sense Him only when we search. He teaches, but only when we are ready to learn. He speaks, but only when we listen. The question is never, Where is God? It is always, Where are we? The problem of faith is not God but humankind. The task of faith is to create an openness in the soul through which the Divine presence can enter. God lives where we let Him in.

Adapted from a well-known Chassidic tale

1. What do you think Rabbi Sacks means by “Faith is the space we create for God”? Why do we need to make space for God?
2. What do you think the Kotzker Rebbe meant when he said “God lives where we let him in”?
3. “God is always here, but we sense Him only when we search”. Are you searching for God? Where?
4. Where can you sense God? Where do you make space for Him?
5. Do you find faith easy to come by? Do you find it needs constant hard work?

Share your analysis: Come together as a class. Present your approach to the core concept allocated to you, making reference to the secondary texts and the answers you came up with to the questions accompanying them.

If you feel comfortable during the discussion, share with the class your own faith journey. These questions may help you:

1. Do you find faith, and a relationship with God, easy to come by?
2. What is the source of your faith?
3. What are the biggest challenges to your faith?
4. Sometimes there are questions of faith that we just can't answer. Do you find yourself seeking answers to such questions?
5. If so, how do you reconcile those questions with your faith?
6. Do you find Jewish history a challenge to your faith, or a source of strength?
7. Have you found the sources that you have studied in this unit challenging to your faith, or have they helped to strengthen it?

The Assignment

Part 1: Become a Faith Researcher. Faith is a unique journey for each person, but are there any common aspects shared among us? In this unit we have explored our own faith journeys and the faith of our class mates. For this assignment you will research the faith of a range of people by collecting answers to the questionnaire below. Gather the data and analyze the responses you were given. For example, are you able to identify any patterns in the data? Did you find anything surprising? How did the answers given by the participants in the survey compare with your own answers, and with the discussions that you and your classmates had in class about these topics?

Your sample (the group of people you are researching) must include at least one religious leader (for example a rabbi), a teacher from your school, a grandparent, a parent, a friend, and finally, yourself. You may include as many people as you like in your research.

How you collect the data is up to you. Options include personal interviews, emailing the questionnaire, or creating an online questionnaire.

Your final product should include a summary of the answers you collected, a paragraph of analysis for each question, and an overall conclusion of the results of your survey.

Faith Questionnaire:

1. Name (optional)
2. What is your relationship to the researcher?
3. Where do you live?
4. Describe yourself as a Jew.
5. Do you find faith, and a relationship with God, easy to come by?
6. What is the source of your faith?
7. What are the biggest challenges to your faith?
8. Sometimes there are questions of faith that we just can't answer. Do you find yourself seeking answers to such questions?
9. If so, how do you reconcile those questions with your faith?
10. Do you find Jewish history a challenge to your faith, or a source of strength?

Part 2: For bonus points, prepare a list of questions for Rabbi Sacks on any of the topics we have studied in this unit. Send your questions to your teacher, who will forward a number of insightful questions from the class to Rabbi Sacks. Rabbi Sacks will respond to a selection of the questions he receives for each unit from students around the world. Visit www.RabbiSacks.org/TenPaths to see his responses.
